

I would hope the FCC wouldn't impose a standard requiring HDTV Copy Protection. I am a paying customer to receive television programs. I have always been free to record a T.V. program in the past for personal use. I see no reason why HDTV broadcasts should be blocked from recording programs for personal use. The way I look at the situation is just another step for Big Brother to be controlling the way americans go about their everyday lives. Please do whats right for the consumer.
